The historic Swift House Inn, a former governor's home, is situated on four acres of lawns and gardens. The Inn consists of the governor's home with 9 guest rooms, the Carriage House with six suites, and the "Gate" House with five rooms and wonderful sitting areas. Jessica's restaurant, located in the main building, has three dining rooms and a spectacular outside covered deck. The Swift House Inn is a short two-block walk to the town green of the quintessential Vermont village of Middlebury, home of Middlebury College. The Inn is at the hub of great back road bicycling, at the crossroads to three great fly fishing rivers, and at the base of the Green Mountains with its unlimited hiking trails and downhill and cross country skiing. The numerous rooms with fireplaces and the sauna and steam shower are welcome amenities for active guests.
